AFG Takes Flight with LISA Aircraft Records Management In a SaaS Model

AFG, a leading aircraft trading and consulting firm in commercial and business aviation, has selected LISA Aircraft Records Management as its digital aircraft records management system. This marks a key step in strengthening its operational processes as the company expands into the aircraft leasing industry. With LISA, AFG gains access to a comprehensive suite of tools designed to streamline record archiving and upkeep, enhance reliability, minimize asset risk, and support informed decision-making across its fleet.

AFG has onboarded LISA with its leased aircraft and will gradually expand to include additional aircraft from various operators and types as it grows its footprint in the aircraft leasing market.

“Major asset risks carried by lessors lie in the consistent access to, and quality of, records. With the help of LISA, AFG has taken a significant step toward digitalization, protecting asset values and significantly reducing customer default risk — perfectly representing their innovative mindset,” said Giuseppe Renga, CEO AMROS Group. “With the recent implementation of LISA Aircraft Records Management, AFG is now managing its records with greater order and reliability. The system offers clarity, consistency, and a dependable reference point, helping ensure that every decision regarding the fleet is informed and well-grounded.”

AFG’s adoption of LISA underscores the shift within the leasing industry toward digital solutions that bring clarity, consistency, and reliability to aircraft records management — essential for safeguarding asset value.
